The United States Attorney charges that:

COUNT 1

A. AT ALL TIMES MATERIAL HEREIN:

1. On or about August 29, 2005, Hurricane Katrina struck southeastern Louisiana and shortly thereafter a major disaster was declared. Similarly, a major disaster was declared in Louisiana as a result of Hurricane Rita, which made landfall on September 24, 2005. In response to these hurricanes and the damage inflicted upon the Southeastern Louisiana area, the American Red Cross ("Red Cross") established assistance centers throughout the region in the late summer and early fall of 2005.

2. At these assistance centers, people affected by the storms were able to apply for a one-time only financial grant of up to $1,565 from the Red Cross. In order to receive these funds, applicants needed to present identification to a Red Cross representative that indicated residence in an affected zone. Applicants were also asked if they had previously received financial assistance from the Red Cross and were required to attest and sign a statement that certified that the applicant had not received any other financial assistance from the Red Cross from any other assistance center.

3. Once approved, the Red Cross made these disaster assistance funds available in one of four ways: (1) A personal check made payable to the applicant, issued on-site, and cashed with the assistance of the Red Cross; (2) A Red Cross-issued "Discover" card, issued on-site, and activated via phone by the applicant; (3) A Red Cross-issued Client Assistance Card ("CAC card"), which the Red Cross purchased from national banks and which operated in a manner consistent with debit/credit/ATM cards, issued on-site; (4) A personal check authorized by the Red Cross and mailed through the United States Postal Service to an address provided by the applicant.

4. The Red Cross purchased 200,000 "gift cards" from Discover, a credit card company. These gift cards were "loaded" with a specific amount of money, depending upon the applicant's qualifications. The cards were activated by the applicant's calling an activation hotline and were thereafter usable in a manner otherwise consistent with a debit/credit card. The authorization and tracking of purchases and withdrawals for the Discover gift cards were routed to data centers located in Columbus, Ohio and Dallas, Texas.

5. The defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, presented himself to Red Cross assistance centers on three occasions between on or about September 15, 2005 and on or about October 6, 2005. On at least two occasions, he applied for financial assistance and indicated that he had not received any other financial assistance from the Red Cross. As a result of her actions on these 3 applications, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, received direct financial assistance from the Red Cross in one of the four manners described above, totaling $4,695, of which $3,130 was fraudulently obtained.

B. THE SCHEME TO DEFRAUD:

Beginning on or about September 15, 2005 and continuing until on or about October 12, 2005, in the Eastern District of Louisiana and elsewhere, the defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, did knowingly and willfully devise and intend to devise a scheme and artifice to defraud and to obtain money and property from the Red Cross, by means of false representations, pretenses, and promises.

C. THE USE OF THE WIRE:

On or about October 12, 2005, in the Eastern District of Louisiana, the defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, for the purpose of executing and attempting to execute the scheme and artifice to defraud as described in Parts A and B, did knowingly and willfully cause to be transmitted in interstate commerce certain writings, signs, signals, and sounds by means of wire communications when the defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, used a Red Cross-issued Discover debit/gift card numbered XXXX XXXX XXXX 5464 to obtain property, goods, services, and money in the Eastern District of Louisiana, specifically at a Racetrac retail gasoline convenience store in Amite, Louisiana which caused a signal, sign, writing, and sound to be transmitted to a data center outside the state of Louisiana, allowing the defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER, to receive the property, goods, services, and money by the use of the falsely and fraudulently obtained Discover debit/gift card issued to the defendant, JOHNNIE ALEXANDER on or about September 30, 2005; all in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343.
